interest for preservati^on. The cent was first proposed by Robert Morris, the great financier of the revolution, and was named by Jefferson two years after. It began to make its appearance first from the head of George Washington on one side and thirty-three stars on the other. The French revolution soon created a rage for French ideas in America, which put the cent, instead of the head of Washington, the head of the Goddess of Liberty—a French liberty, with back thrust forward and flowing locks. The chain on the reverse was replaced by an olive branch. The figure of the Goddess of Liberty was short-lived, and so was her portrait on the cent. The next head of George succeeded.

ECONOMY OF ADMINISTRATION.

The Tax and Tariff Bill, prepared and natured with great care and study of the times, during the session of Congress just closed, has become a law, and party. We have already given at considerable length many of the details of the bill, and need here only refer in general to its provisions. As it now stands, it frees from duties materials for ship building, bibles, chemicals, dyes, drugs, and many articles required in manufacturing. It reduces the duties forty per cent. on coal, fifty per cent. on salt, twenty per cent. on lead, iron, copper and metals, ten per cent. on manufactures of these metals, ten per cent. on wools and their manufactures. It repeals seven years and eight millions of stamp taxes; it abolishes customs warehouses; it repeals the allowance of duties on imports; it revises and simplifies internal revenue taxes; it reduces by about 275 the number of Assessors and Collectors.

It is estimated that the reduction of taxes by this new law will amount to fifty-three or fifty-four million dollars, which brings the sum total of the reduction in annual taxation, effected by measures passed within the past two years by a Republican Congress, up to about $100,000,000. The reduction of the public debt has been reduced more than three hundred millions during the present administration.

A portion of the debt has also been funded at a lower rate of interest. In the measures, securities of the United States have been advanced in the money market of the world. Currency has constantly advanced towards a gold basis, with unexampled stability and the time is now at hand when such payment may be resumed, with little serious disturbance of business relations.

The country prospering as never before, and a feeling of confidence in the future branch of trade. A vast metallic reserve in the vaults of the people's government, giving assurance that the interest on the debt will be promptly paid, and affording the means to erect at once any wall and selfish speculation in public securities or gambling in gold.

The opposition press is constantly asserting that the financial administration of the Government has been conducted with unexampled extravagance. The assertion is contradicted by solid facts. We are referred to the great debt of Democratic times when the affairs of the country were managed with economy and economy. Let us examine the collection of customs and see what the truth really is. In 1860, the golden year of Democratic rule, the customs collections amounted to $30,700,000. The cost of collection was

$3,294,000. The cost of collection was therefore, six and one-quarter per cent. In 1871, the year of unprecedented Republican corruption—according to the mendacious misrepresentation of Democratic and "liberal"

Journalists—the customs collections amounted to $32,200,000. The cost of collection was

$3,294,000. The cost of collection was

It is well known that the trading political party in New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois and Missouri were foremost in securing the nomination of Mr. Greeley at Cincinnati. It was in these four States that the conspiracy between the disappointed Republicans and Democratic reformers, the earliest, and was most vigorously entered into. It is not worthy, therefore, that in each of these States, the attempt to carry out the bargain has caused much bad feeling among the Democrats. In New York, too, violence of the World, and the implacable opposition of the State-Zetung, together with the inextricable entanglements of the Chicago Convention, and the intrigues that did not name Mr. Greeley to the Convention, and the leading Democratic Papers of Philadelphia and Pittsburg are uniting in their denunciation of him. In Illinois many of the most influential men in the party, and the Chicago Times—one of the failures of the liberal movement—were very bitter against him. And finally, in Missouri, the men from which the plot was hatched, the Greeleyites were obliged to resort to violent means to silence opposition in the Convention, and sent their opponents away angry and humiliated. In short, as was recently remarked by a prominent

New York Democrat, "Mr. Greeley is sure to cost the Democrats more votes than he can bring them."

The tender solicitude of the Democratic press for Mr. Schuyler Colfax, says the New York Times, is interesting, if not unbecoming. His "statesmanship," his "zeal," his "fidelity," his "self-denial," his "purity," and, above all, his "invaluable services to the Republican Party," are the most commonplace of praise. These compliments are well deserved. By Mr. Colfax, as they are thoroughly deserved by him. The Vice-Pres-

The Springfield Republican tries very hard to wriggle out of the hole in which the Clinton nomination placed it. It says that many of the opponents of the Administration with "Hestiate" to vote for Greeley, "and that they have not taken their seats out of one year merely to put them into another."

It would be very glad to see Mr. Adams substituted for Mr. Greeley. If the Republican does not mind what it is about, it will be classified by the Tribune as the "Great organ," and then what would become of it?
